

A horses head

Try drawing a horses head!

Copy the first image using a series of circles and a rough triangular shape that will help plot the basic shape of a horses head. You will notice that the angle of the head dips down towards the nose. You can vary this as you become more accomplished. It's important to keep the 3 circles, in their exact positions for the eye, the jaw and the nose - these along with the triangle give you the beginnings of the drawing. You can add more detail when these basic shapes are in place - adding detailed eyes, mouth, ears will all help make the horse look more realistic.
